

Word / Expression	Korean	Usage	Notes
Egg [you / them] on	~를 부추기다, 꼬드기다	Stop egging them on , you know they will get in to trouble. / If you egg her on enough you know she'll do it.	to encourage, urge, or dare someone to continue doing something, usually something unwise.
Blown it	실수하다, 얼빠진 짓을 하다	They've blown their chance of winning the game / I've blown it! I won't be able to get the promotion this year.	To destroy your chance of doing something. Usually used in the past tense.
Know it all	아는 체하는 (사람), 똑똑한 체하는 (사람)	I really don't like her, she's such a know it all! / Stop being such a know it all.	Somebody who acts as if they know everything. A very annoying habit.
Middle aged spread	중년의 군살 (뱃살)	Looks like you're getting a middle aged spread / You need to be careful, you'll be getting a middle aged spread soon.	When your stomach begins to get bigger as you get older
Crack me up	~를 몹시 웃기다.	Oh that's so funny. it cracks me up / Every time I see her she cracks me up	Something or someone that makes you laugh easily
Spoof	(영화·텔레비전 프로그램 등을) 패러디한 것	Did you see that spoof video on You Tube? / I think this is a spoof of that TV show / SNL TV show always spoofs the government.	A fake picture or video or story that makes fun of the original.
Civil Servant / Government Officer		A civil servant is someone who works for the government either locally or centrally. A Government officer is not a commonly used phrase.	Using "Government Officer" is a bit strange in English - the phrase feels like police officer / customs officer.